Elegant apartment with exquisite interior design next to Colón market

The concept of this apartment is based on continuity of spaces and practical interaction where one space brings together the hall, living room, dining room, library and kitchen, whilst maintaining the privacy of the 2 en-suite bedrooms.

This property is characterised by its interior design which brings together the different uses of a home in one space to achieve an ample, contemporary layout.

From the hallway the day-time area's distinct uses can be interpreted: the office-library space and the living area. A slight turn in the other direction and the dining area and kitchen can be seen, this area can either form part of the communal space or be kept separate.

The night-time area is made up of 2 double bedrooms with 2 complete bathrooms and 2 dressing-rooms as well as large windows looking out onto the ample courtyard.

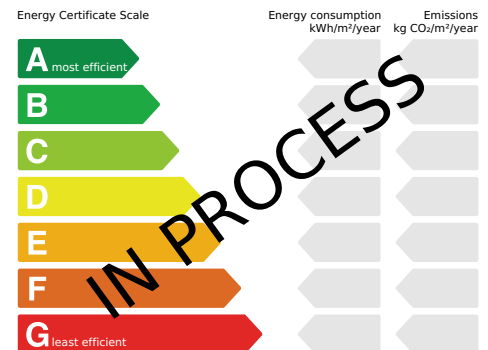

The architecture determines the structural details in the most exquisite yet simple way: floor-to-ceiling doors, integrated sliding doors, white marble flooring, lacquered woodwork etc.

The shelving helps to compartmentalise the spaces, the wardrobes are built in and the furniture has been specifically chosen to help define the use of each area and create a unique ambience coherent throughout the property and in tune with the spacial concept of the architecture.
