OVERVIEW

Spectacular, luxury seafront property in a prime location of the Costa Brava, overlooking the bay of Aiguablava.

This is surely one of the most sought-after properties in the Costa Brava, a luxury villa offering complete privacy, stunning sea and beach views, fantastic landscaped gardens designed by Victoria de Borbón dos Sicilias and direct access to the sea.

The house was designed and built in the 1960s by Italian architect Marcello Leonori, who utilised the natural amphitheatre setting to create a truly one of a kind property. The south-facing aspect makes the most of the glorious setting and climate, and it is just a minute's walk to the lovely Platja Fonda.

Everything about the house is designed to make the most of this privileged position on one of the most beautiful coastlines in the world. The incredible master suite has a private terrace overlooking the gardens and the pool, which is perched on the rocks and surrounded by a summer kitchen and dining area and guest changing rooms.

Natural light and those Costa Brava views can be enjoyed from just about every corner, from the reception area to the separate guest apartment and 2-bedroom service quarters. Renovations were carried out in 2000 and recent improvements include impressive automated sunshades on the terraces and by the pool, and an internal/external Sonos sound system.

A home cinema provides indoor entertainment, while a wooden playhouse in the garden gives children even more opportunities for fun. An ornamental fountain with statues adds extra glamour and emphasises the space available on this large plot, which also has a garage and exterior parking for 10 cars.

Peace of mind is provided by a remote 16-camera video security and alarm system, and life is made as easy as possible with automatic irrigation, a generator in case of power cuts and a private well.
