OVERVIEW

Beautiful recently-renovated 300 year-old finca set in rolling hills near San José.

This charming Ibiceno country house brings elegance and luxury to the lush green hills of the White Isle. It is located in a protected green area, so there are no close neighbors and the future of this lovely private setting is assured.

The house sits elegantly in an elevated position with beautiful panoramic views that look out across the countryside, Salinas and beyond the sea to Formentera. The generous plot has lovely gardens on different levels, with terraces, fruit trees and plenty of hidden corners and chill-out zones.

The solar heated pool makes the most of the uninterrupted views, while stylish covered and uncovered seating and dining areas are perfect for relaxing with the family or entertaining plenty of friends. A Sonos sound system takes care of the entertainment.

The interior combines traditional Ibiceno charm with high quality finishes, and everything is as-new following the recent renovation. Stone walls and wooden beams abound, to give a substantial but homely feel, and there are several covered balcony areas with arches that provide a unique perspective on the surrounding countryside.

The main house has two huge bedrooms, a stunning bathroom and terraces, while three independent suites are situated alongside. The living areas are grand and welcoming, with plenty of reception and dining options and a feature open fire.

This is the ideal family home, with everything for easy living and fun including home cinema, office, barbecue, bar and plenty of space. Solar panels add peace of mind to the power supply, while a well does the same for water. There is also a large garage.
