OVERVIEW

4 bedroom villa, designed by a renowned architect on a plot of land measuring 1200.00m², located in a prestigious and quiet neighborhood of Marechal Gomes da Costa.

This house that “hides” among the centuries-old trees, is located on an extensive plot of land and extends almost entirely towards the interior of the property.

It is a house designed by a renowned architect who influenced modernist architecture in Portugal.

The house is located higher than street level, and is spread over three floors, two of which are above garden level.

On the ground floor we are welcomed by a large hall where a “designer” staircase is designed and leads us to the upper floor. This structural piece is also a decorative element from which we can contemplate an extensive living area with a fireplace with a superb glass ceiling, which makes us project towards the garden, giving us an enormous feeling of space and interaction with nature. On this floor there are other social areas such as the dining room, an office, the pantry and the kitchen.

Following the inviting route taken by the stairs to the upper floor, we are surprised by a balcony with an interior path that offers us a panoramic view of the garden and lower floor. In this private area of the house, there are two bedrooms with a complete sanitary installation, lined with elegant marble and sanitary ware designed by the author of the project, as well as a suite with a terrace facing the other side and with the same finishes, including the wardrobe cabinets that have the same signature.

“Architect from the Escola Superior de Belas-Artes do Porto, Viana de Lima greatly contributed to the development of modernist architecture in Portugal. He signed numerous architecture and urban planning projects and, in 1961, he obtained, at the FCG's «II Exhibition of Plastic Arts», the Grand Prize for Architecture and the Gold Medal of the City of Porto.”
