OVERVIEW

A south-facing fully-renovated stone house with an easy maintenance garden and spacious rooms, situated a short distance from the Minho River, Portugal and sandy beaches.

A delightful renovated stone house in the O Rosal region of Pontevedra is located within a short distance of Portugal, with beautiful beaches and charming villages. The property features a lovely small garden which is easy to maintain.

Previously a historic stone barn which the current owners converted into an interesting house maintaining some original features.

Once inside the property, we access a small cobblestone path that leads to the garden area and the entrance to the house. There are peaceful outside spaces to enjoy with friends and family in the garden, and there is a large terrace area for outdoor dining. There is a vegetable garden with beds and automatic irrigation. It is all south facing.

Entering the house through a large Galician style wooden door, we have an open layout kitchen with brick-built porcelain work surfaces and colourful wall tiles. There is beautiful stonework and large wooden beams. There is a bathroom and under-stair storage. From the kitchen the original barn doors open into the living room/study area which leads out onto the terrace.

Upstairs with an open beamed wooden ceiling there is a second bathroom and currently one bedroom running the length of the house. There is plenty of space to add another bedroom if required. A light and open area which leads out to the large enclosed terrace overlooking the garden and lovely views of the Minho river and the Portuguese mountains.

The property offers the possibility to build a small home office and live in a charming village.
